Garden State Foliage Dried & Deco, pure dried perfection

With a pure passion for always creating the most natural dried flowers and decorative products, Garden State Foliage Dried & Deco collaborates with a specialist who has 40 years of knowledge in growing and producing the most desirable, authentic dried products. Making a difference with adding value controlling every aspect of production from seeding, growing, and drying to producing a high-quality collection of products. Our design team is constantly innovating with new bouquets, designs, and arrangements to inspire every retailer, florist, or wholesaler. Making the whole process cohesive and organic. We are the center of excellence in dried flowers.

Sustainable choices

There are many reasons why dried flowers are a sustainable choice. The main one is the length of time they last. A perfect match for the slow interior movement. Most of our flowers and stems are grown in Holland. For the minimal products we import, we always use sea containers as a sustainable method of transportation. All our dyes and paints are water-based, and our sources certified, wastewater is also treated in our water purification plant. Waste is the key pollution in our society; therefore, we have developed initiatives in the field of packaging, including, bio-degradable covers, paper-plastic separation, paper adhesive tape, and we are also developing a biodegradable glitter. With 360 solar panels on the roof of our facility in the Netherlands this is almost sufficient to supply our electric power demand.

Let us help you to make the most sustainable choices with our Eco range of products. It comes naturally!

Today

Garden State Foliage Dried & Deco has collaborated with a company that has been producing dried flowers in the Netherlands, for 40 years. This small authentic town is the heart of Dutch flower and bulb production, and the soil is perfect for growing a wide range of flowers.
